Dealer notes

Turn heads at every stop in this 1981 GMC K1500 Sierra Grande 4x4 Fenderside shortbed pickup, finished in steel gray metallic with ghosted blue flames and a blue vinyl interior. This clean Ohio truck rides on polished 15-inch alloy wheels with aggressive all-terrain tires and can be driven as-is or built up to your taste. The paint shines beautifully with only minor flaws, and the flames and blue-accented tailgate set it off nicely. The chrome bumpers show minor flaws but still shine. A matching topper and a Rhino Linings sprayed-in bedliner make it ready for work or weekend gear. Under the hood is a 350 CID V8 with Vortec heads, late-1980s GM computer-controlled EFI with OBD1, tubular headers, and an aluminum radiator. Power reaches the pavement through a four-speed manual, with four-wheel drive when you need it. The frame is sturdy, and the body is solid, with minor rust on the driver's side. It's an excellent cruiser with plenty of power for the open road, and the dual exhaust gives it a distinctive, rumbling note. Inside, the clean cab has a bench seat that shows very little wear and a tachometer built into the dash. This is a solid, honest GMC 4x4 you'll truly enjoy driving and owning.
