Dealer notes

1990 GMC Squarebody Suburban 4x4 Barn Door. Solid West Coast, very original survivor. This Suburban is equipped with a 5.7L 350 TBI engine and automatic overdrive transmission. We have decided to only lightly recondition this unit before putting it online in order to keep the price point as reasonable as possible and give someone the opportunity to own a nice Suburban without all the modifications that some people like and some people don't. We will be happy to modify it, though, for the right customer. The interior is solid and clean, other than a few expected cracks in the dash. It features an aftermarket stereo system, overhead console that is actually intact, dome lights that work properly, and door panels and door pockets that are in great shape. This truck is absolutely rust-free underneath and has not been undercoated, sprayed, or otherwise covered up, so you can see exactly what you're getting. It also has a hidden rear tow hitch assembly. This truck is a great candidate for someone looking for a solid survivor. It has been repainted, obviously due to GM's well-known paint issues during this era, but the bottoms of the doors, rocker panels, and all of the other areas of concern on these trucks are not a concern on this one. Modification options are virtually unlimited. Whether you're looking for a lift kit, restoration items, or something completely different, we would be happy to accommodate.
