Dealer notes

As its reputation for and performance grows, Hyundai tries its hand at the full-size luxury car segment with the 2004 Hyundai XG350. Hyundai's largest car at the time, the front-wheel drive sedan offers more standard features than comparably priced cars in its class. Check out the power front seats, leather seats, a CD player, and cruise control. There are few changes to the sedan, popular for Hyundai's long-term warranty and low price tag. The grille, foglights, air dam, and rear bumper and license plate location are revised slightly, with more chrome added. A full-size 16-inch spare is now standard on both trims, and front brakes are larger by an inch. Another big draw for drivers are the standard safety features, which include ABS brakes and traction control, Automatic headlights, an auto-dimming rearview mirror, as well as dual front and front-side airbags. The result is four and five-star crash test ratings. Rear seats split-fold 60/40, and the trunk holds an adequate 15 cubic feet of space. Legroom is plentiful, though not quite as spacious as the Avalon. Print this out and call us NOW for your personalized test drive towards ownership!
