Dealer notes

The 2022 Chrysler Pacifica Hybrid Touring L is the minivan for parents who refused to choose between efficiency and actually wanting to drive their family vehicle. The 3.6L V6 plug-in hybrid system pairs with a CVT and front-wheel drive to deliver 260 horsepower combined, which means the Pacifica Hybrid doesn't ask you to sacrifice power for efficiency, it simply gives you both, and the engine auto stop-start feature works quietly in the background so every red light becomes another small win for your fuel budget. Ceramic Gray Clearcoat over a black, alloy, and black interior gives this minivan a sophisticated presence that doesn't scream "minivan" the moment it pulls into the driveway. Step through the power third and fourth passenger doors and the Touring L reveals exactly what makes this trim worth seeking out. The 10.1-inch touchscreen display anchors a cabin built around making every passenger comfortable, with adaptive cruise control easing highway stress, tri-zone air conditioning with rear A/C keeping every row at the right temperature, and cargo space lights and a tire mobility kit covering the practical realities of family logistics without complaint. Deep tinted glass, a black grille with chrome surround, and front fog lamps round out an exterior that looks considered rather than purely functional, because Chrysler understood that the people buying this trim wanted both. Satellite radio, smart device integration, and a 6-speaker audio system keep the cabin connected on every trip, while the plug-in hybrid powertrain gives you the flexibility to run on electric power for daily errands and fall back on the gas engine the moment a longer drive demands it. A Touring L Pacifica Hybrid with this much standard equipment and the segment's most advanced powertrain at this price point is the kind of value that families who have done their research recognize immediately. Come see it at Carlux in Waukegan and find out how a minivan can still feel like the smart, modern choice across Chicagoland.
