Dealer notes

1971 Chevrolet C10 Stepside Pickup. This truck is a really great example of a well-preserved classic, presenting nicely inside and out. The rare Stepside configuration features a wood-floored bed with stainless steel bed rails, while the interior remains very era-correct. This truck runs, drives, and operates as it should, and it sits just right, appearing to have a slight drop complemented by rally wheels that give it the perfect stance. Under the hood, everything has also been refinished and presents remarkably well. The truck is currently powered by an inline-six engine that appears to have been rebuilt and refinished, along with a fresh carburetor. The inner fenders are nicely painted, the firewall presents well, and the entire engine compartment has a clean, finished appearance. While this C10 would make an excellent candidate for a future LS swap, big-block, or small-block V8 conversion, there is plenty to appreciate about its current configuration. With its solid undercarriage, attractive presentation, and outstanding curb appeal, this Stepside gets a ton of attention wherever it goes. We have several videos of this vehicle available and would be happy to provide additional pictures or videos upon request. Just reach out and let us know what you would like to see!
