Dealer notes

1981 Honda ATC 250R 3-Wheeler Classic. This first-year production, Generation 1 two-stroke is an exceptional example of a California-owned original machine. Other than replacement tires, this bike is completely OE original and truly a time capsule, whether you intend to ride it or display it in a showroom collection. The bike fires right up and runs perfectly. It still retains the California registration sticker on the rear axle, the rear mud flaps that are almost always missing, an undamaged skid plate, heat shields, and the original decals, all still in place. We did not want to touch this bike with any restoration work—it was simply too perfect as an original specimen. If you were to price out the parts and pieces on this bike, they would likely be worth more individually than the machine as a whole. Finding one in this condition today is nearly impossible. This ATC is just a spare from our personal collection, and we will regret parting with it, but it does no good sitting in the corner when it could be enjoyed and appreciated by someone else.
