Introduced for the 1986 model year, the 560 SL began the final—and, for many enthusiasts, most desirable—chapter of an iconic model line that remained in production for nearly two decades. Powered by a smooth and responsive 5.6-liter V8 paired with a four-speed automatic transmission, the 560 SL delivers effortless performance and the composed grand-touring character for which classic Mercedes-Benz automobiles are renowned. Anti-lock brakes, a driver-side airbag, automatic climate control, cruise control, power accessories, and a well-appointed cabin made it one of the most advanced and luxurious roadsters of its era. The 560 SL also offers remarkable versatility, combining a folding convertible soft top with a removable body-colored hardtop. With the hardtop installed, it becomes a refined and substantial luxury coupe; remove it, and the car transforms into an elegant open-air touring machine. Genuine wood trim, rich interior materials, classic analog instrumentation, and Mercedes-Benz's famously solid construction complete the experience. This particular example is a CARFAX-certified two-owner vehicle with no prior accidents or damage reported or detectable. It has spent its entire life in the sunny, warm, and dry climates of Nevada and California—an ideal environment for preserving a classic automobile. That history is reflected in its spectacular original condition and exceptionally well-preserved presentation. As the first model year of the highly regarded 560 SL, this car offers a compelling combination of timeless design, V8 performance, usability, and collector appeal. Well-preserved examples have become increasingly desirable, and this vehicle appears to have reached a mature point in its depreciation cycle. While future values can never be guaranteed, it offers the rare opportunity to acquire a genuine automotive classic that can be enjoyed for years while potentially preserving—and perhaps increasing—its value. Much like a fine work of art, it is something to admire, experience, and proudly own. If you have been searching for an outstanding R107 Mercedes-Benz, this spectacular two-owner 560 SL deserves serious consideration. Shipping, Financing & Protection Plans
