Dealer notes

Looking for an SUV that screams "I have my life together" but still secretly wants to drag race a minivan off the stoplight? Meet this 2020 Chevrolet Blazer 2LT at Ohio Motor Group in Steubenville!The DetailsThe Heart: A beefy 3.6L V6 engine (because a 4-cylinder in a mid-size SUV is just a cry for help).The Look: Sleek, sharp, and aggressive utility lines that make people think you're heading to an important business meeting when you're actually just going to Target in sweatpants.The Cabin: 4-door, spacious luxury with modern tech designed to survive road trips, grocery hauls, and your kid's questionable music taste.Why You Need It (The No-Bullst Breakdown)**V6 Power: This isn't one of those late-model SUVs that groans when you try to merge onto Route 22. It packs 308 horsepower, meaning you can actually pass that semi-truck without saying a prayer first.Depreciation Hit? Someone Else Paid It: Buying a brand-new car right now is basically a financial extreme sport. Let the original owner absorb that fresh-off-the-lot value drop while you reap the rewards of a pristine, modern ride."Accidental" Camaro Vibes: Chevy's designers clearly took a Camaro, stretched it out, and gave it a lift kit. You get the aggressive sports car face, but with enough cargo room to fit a weekend's worth of hardware store impulse buys.The Bottom LineStop driving that sedan that bottoms out on Steubenville potholes. Upgrade your driveway status with a V6 Blazer that looks expensive but won't
